A one-day conference on cyber defense and disaster recovery will be held Friday, March 12 at the University of Illinois at Springfield.

The event is hosted by the UIS Computer Science Department in cooperation with InfraGard Springfield. Breakout sessions in Conference Room C/D on the lower level of the Public Affairs Center will cover topics such as cyber threats, hacking, risk assessment and computer-forensic response.

Michael Davis, author of "Hacking Exposed," is the keynote speaker. Cost is $30, including a lunch and break refreshments.

Registration is due by 5 p.m. Friday, March 5, at <http://csc.uis.edu/cyberconference>. Additional information also is available from Janis Rose, 206-8246.
