Quality Assurance Lab Internship
The Quality Assurance Lab ensures product is of specific quality before being released to the customer. The Quality Assurance Intern helps to monitors the overall operational quality of the facility, and the quality of products produced by evaluating the product for product integrity, taste, size, shape, color, weight, volume and uniformity. The QAI is also responsible for testing new flavors and new product before being released to the production floor. The QAI may assist in the SQF (Safety Quality Food) initiative and ensuring standards are met.

Basic student learning anticipated
The Quality Assurance Intern would learn about food science and working in a manufacturing environment.
