Adjournment
Dear Colleagues:

It is my pleasure to present this listing of scholarly achievements by the faculty of the University of Illinois Springfield, and I hope you will take a few moments to review the entire compilation. It represents academic publications and presentations delivered in state, regional, national, and international venues during the 2014 calendar year, and it’s an impressive array. Taken as a whole, the annual listing is a tangible reflection of our abiding commitment to a true teacher-scholar model, in which scholarship and teaching are realized as mutually enlivening and enriching activities.

As you know, we traditionally limit entries in the annual listing to peer-reviewed publications and presentations, which are the time-honored, public forms of faculty scholarship. Nevertheless, we also know that faculty members engage in many other scholarly activities that contribute to the generation and dissemination of new knowledge and to the development of their academic disciplines and professional fields. The value of these activities, including but not limited to manuscript review and selection, serving on editorial boards, and organizing conference panels, should never be underestimated. Such engagement is also a well-recognized mark of the teacher-scholar.

The teacher-scholar model is, indeed, alive here at UIS, and in the spirit of celebrating excellence in scholarship, I extend sincere congratulations on all of your scholarly accomplishments in 2014, and best wishes for your continuing success.

Dr. Elizabeth Kosmetatou, Associate Professor of History, is regarded as an expert on the period in Hellenistic history between the deaths of Alexander the Great in 323 BCE and of Cleopatra VII in 30 BCE. Her scholarship involves the interdisciplinary study of the story of the Attalids of ancient Pergamon, the votives of the temple of Artemis, and the epigrams of the poet Poseidippus of Pella.

The depth and range of Professor Kosmetatou’s scholarship is a testament to her many academic skills and strengths, which include expertise in several areas of specialization, such as the analysis of ancient coins, inscriptions, literary and historiographical texts, and ancient politics. She is also fluent in English, Modern Greek, Dutch, German, French, Italian, Spanish, and Turkish languages, and she has a reading knowledge of classical Greek, Latin, Biblical Hebrew, Coptic, and Pharaonic Egyptian.

Dr. Kosmetatou has published multiple peer-reviewed journal articles and book chapters and has additional work in progress, including projects titled The Votives in the Delian Artemision and History and Society in the Classical Period. She has also delivered numerous scholarly presentations at national and international conferences, organized international conferences in her field, and given invited guest lectures at universities in the U.S. as well as abroad.

Of equal importance, Professor Kosmetatou’s scholarship and expertise are deeply connected to and reflected in the courses that she teaches. She has garnered praise from students as well as colleagues for her enthusiasm, energy, and creativity as a teacher, and for the encouragement she provides to her students. Professor Kosmetatou teaches courses online and on campus, and she received the Burks Oakley II Distinguished Online Teaching Award in 2012.
