Informational Interviewing Quick Guide

Preparing for an Informational Interview

- Research the company
- Dress for success
- Update and bring your resume
- Practice interviewing with the CDC, family, or friends
- Call to confirm your informational interview appointment
- Prepare and prioritize a list of open ended questions

Who do I interview?

You should interview people working in the field you are interested in. Find a person to interview by utilizing:

- Your own Network of contacts (See Networking Quick Guide)
- The U of I Alumni Association – Alumni Directory (Accessed Under ‘Connect’ at http://www.uiaa.org/uis/)
- Employers of interest in Handshake or Star Employers https://www.uis.edu/career/employers/be-star-employer

- Schedule an appointment with a Career Counselor to help you locate someone in your field of interest

Informational Interview Request

- Introduce yourself and your objective for writing the request.
- Explain background, career and educational goals, and why you are interested in the recipient of the request.
- Let the recipient know how they can help you meet your career goals.
- Suggest meeting times, locations, and the next contact to follow up with the request.

Questions to Consider Asking:

- General questions about the career field
- Questions pertaining to aspects of the interviewee’s job
- Preparation for the career; Interviewee’s career path
- Culture of the company
- Company’s needs and expectations
- Opportunities for advancement within the company
- Seeking general advice and referrals from your interviewee

Questions to Avoid Asking:

- Do not ask blunt questions about their salary
- Do not ask for a job or help getting a job
- Do not ask highly personal questions

Informational Interview Follow-Up

- Send a Thank You Letter within 24-48 hours after the interview: https://www.uis.edu/career-services/business-correspondence
- Stay Organized! Keep notes and follow with any referrals you received from that person.
- Reflect on what you’ve learned & stay in touch with this person if you are seriously considering the occupation.

August 31, 202?

Mr. Fredrick Michellini
Director of Marketing
YURM Marketing and Communications
Auburn, IL 64455

Dear Mr. Michellini,

I am currently researching positions in the field of marketing and communications and Dr. James Seymore from the University of Illinois Springfield suggested that you would be an excellent source of information. I am greatly interested in becoming more knowledgeable in this progressive field. I would also like to learn more about the types of careers available in this field, the skills required for them, and the career path that you have taken.

I hope that you will be able to find approximately an hour to meet with me before the end of November. I will contact you the week of September 8th, 202? To set up an appointment. If you have any questions, please contact me by phone at (217) 277-8809 or by email at shapppsf@uis.edu. I appreciate your time in considering my request and I look forward to meeting you.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Harper
