You can rely on your experience as a Prairie Star to have prepared you for this moment, and the moments to come. We believe in you and look forward to witnessing your continued success.

Congratulations again, Class of 2026!

Dr. Timothy L. Killeen

President, University of Illinois

To the Class of 2026, congratulations!

Today is a day to be remembered for what you have achieved and for the road you traveled to arrive here as brand-new graduates of the University of Illinois Springfield.

You have made memories, no doubt, as well as friends and colleagues who now are part of the fabric of your lives. Through them and through your own hard work and discovery, you have grown, you have been transformed and you have earned the tools to navigate all that lies ahead.

You will take with you all of your many accomplishments. You will carry a well-developed ability to adapt and innovate, as well what I hope is a sense of civic engagement—a sense of responsibility that compels you to contribute to a society that counts on you.

But know that you have also earned the right to look around and to reflect, both on this remarkable day and all that led to it.

Commencement is a time of joy, so do not let the day go by without enjoying this milestone with a well-earned sense of pride and achievement.

Savor it.

And celebrate with the family and friends who have believed in you and supported you along the way.

This now includes your University of Illinois System alumni family, which now numbers 890,000 around the world.

In the years ahead, we hope to hear from you often. We look forward to welcoming you home to UIS and learning of your discoveries and successes.

I am deeply honored to celebrate with all of you.

Congratulations again, Class of 2026!

Dr. Janet L. Gooch
Chancellor, University of Illinois Springfield
Vice President, University of Illinois

Congratulations on reaching this important milestone. Commencement is both a celebration of your academic achievements and a recognition of the perseverance, curiosity and commitment that brought you to this moment.

At the University of Illinois Springfield, we value learning that serves a larger purpose: strengthening communities and preparing graduates to lead with integrity. During your time at UIS, you have developed not only knowledge and skills, but also a unique perspective, empathy and a sense of responsibility to others. These qualities will continue to guide you long after today and influence your approach to building relationships, careers and community.

Your accomplishments did not occur in isolation. We extend our sincere thanks to the faculty and staff whose dedication to teaching, mentoring and student support made this day possible, as well as to the family members and friends who encouraged you, believed in you and stood beside you along the way. Their contributions are an essential part of your celebration.

As you move forward into new careers, advanced study and service, know that we are proud of you. I am confident you will apply what you learned at UIS to meet challenges thoughtfully, engage diverse viewpoints and contribute meaningfully in your chosen path.

Thank you for being part of the UIS community. We celebrate your accomplishments and look forward to the many ways you will positively shape the future.

Congratulations, Class of 2026!

Faculty Emeriti

The bestowal of Professor Emeritus status is a recognition of the value the University places on the experience, knowledge, and ability of its retiring faculty. This status is awarded in accordance with the University of Illinois statutes and University of Illinois Springfield policy. The following individuals have been selected to receive Faculty Emeritus status this year.

Beverly Bunch

Beverly Bunch earned a doctorate in public policy analysis from Carnegie-Mellon University in 1988. She joined the University of Illinois Springfield faculty in 2001 as tenured Associate Professor in the Department of Public Administration (now the School of Public Management and Policy) with a joint appointment in the Center for State Policy and Leadership. She was promoted to professor in 2012. Professor Bunch primarily taught graduate courses in public budgeting, capital budgeting and intergovernmental relations. Her scholarship focused on state and local government finance and community action, resulting in approximately 25 journal articles, a coauthored book, “Community Action Leaders: Rooting Out Poverty at the Local Level” (Routledge, 2017), and applied research conducted in partnership with organizations including the Volcker Alliance.

Dr. Bunch contributed extensively to university leadership and service, including 3.5 years as a Faculty Associate in the Provost’s Office and Chancellor’s Office. She served on numerous committees at the university level, including the University Planning and Budget Committee; the Committee on Belonging, Dignity, and Justice; the Graduate Student Recruiting Committee; the Center for Faculty Excellence Advisory Board; and the Search Committee for the UIS Vice Chancellor for Finance and Administration. Her professional and civic engagement includes service on the Board of Trustees for the Citizens Club of Springfield and as a board member of the Emergency Food and Shelter Program.

Vickie Cook

Vickie Cook earned a doctorate in higher education administration from Capella University in 2004 and joined UIS as an adjunct faculty member. She was appointed assistant professor of educational leadership in 2006 and—when her full-time responsibilities took her elsewhere—continued to teach for UIS part-time until her return in 2013. Over the course of her administrative career, Dr. Cook held an appointment as associate research professor and ultimately research professor in the School of Education, receiving meritorious teaching recognition in the Department of Educational Leadership.

Dr. Cook demonstrated a sustained commitment to excellence in teaching, leadership and service through interim leadership of Educational Leadership and Teacher Education during multiple transitional periods. Her university administrative roles included executive director of the Center for Online Learning, Research and Service (COLRS) and, most recently, vice chancellor for Enrollment and Retention Management.

A nationally recognized scholar in generational learning, online education and artificial intelligence in enrollment management, Dr. Cook has earned numerous honors, including the Mildred B. and Charles A. Wedemeyer Award (2024), the Illinois Council on Continuing and Higher Education Award (2018), selection as a Fellow of the Online Learning Consortium and the University of Illinois President’s Executive Leadership Program (2017).

Karl McDermott

Karl McDermott joined the faculty of the Department of Accountancy (now Accounting, Economics and Finance) in 2008. He earned his doctorate in economics from the University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign, a master’s in public utility economics from the University of Wyoming and a bachelor’s in economics from Indiana University of Pennsylvania. During his tenure, Dr. McDermott made significant contributions to academic leadership, teaching and student engagement as the Ameren Distinguished Professor of Business and Government in the College of Business and Management.

He taught a wide range of economics courses, participated in the Capital Scholars Honors Program (CAP) and developed a 400-level Engaged Citizenship Common Experience (ECCE) course for all College of Business and Management undergraduates. At the college level, he served as chair of the Accounting, Economics and Finance Department and led the Curriculum Executive Committee. His university service included the UIS Campus Senate, the University Senates Conference, the Tenure Review Committee and the General Education Review Committee.

Dr. McDermott cofounded the Center for Business Regulation (CBR), which organized conferences and training for the public utility sector at the state, national and international levels. He also testified before state regulatory commissions and in court proceedings.

The Academic Costume

The academic costume worn at American university exercises has its origin in medieval times. The general garment worn by all, at the time, was a gown or robe, a cape with attached hood (cowl) worn over the gown for warmth, and a cap. Color and other adornments added to the garments indicated social status or wealth. The attire worn by students and teachers was strongly influenced by the cathedrals near the center of study. As schools grew in size and diversity of subjects, teacher guilds began designating their field of study by color, and the color of the garments took on an additional designation. By the 14th century, a cap, pileus quadratus (four-cornered cap), became the standard head dress. Through time, these vestments changed in style but the three items, the cap, gown, and hood, remain in academic costumes.

THE CAP: The pileus quadratus went through its own changes. Originally introduced in Paris, the four corners were long and hung down over the head. Later, the corners were pointed upright and then were stiffened outward by a board (the mortar board). The mortar board, or Oxford style, is the traditional cap worn in American universities.

The cap is black in American universities and is constructed of cloth, with velvet reserved for the doctorate. Various items have been attached to the cap, but the tassel is now standard. The color of the tassel is black for any degree, with gold metallic thread restricted to doctors and governing officials. Occasionally, the color of the tassel will indicate honors.

THE GOWN: The cut of the gown designates the degree. The gown color in American universities—except Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Princeton, and a few others—is black. The bachelor's degree gown is relatively simple, falling in straight lines and distinguished by long pointed sleeves. The master's gown is also relatively straight, but the arm opening is at the elbow, allowing the rest of the sleeve to hang down. Until 1960, the arm emerged through a slit at the elbow, a sleeve was added which closes at the wrist. The original sleeve still hangs down to about the knee. The doctor's gown is rather elaborate, marked by bell sleeves with three velvet bars and velvet panels around the neck and down the front. The cut is also fuller than other gowns. The sleeve bars and trim may be black or of subject color.

THE HOOD: Of the three components of academic costume, the hood conveys the most information. The level of the degree is indicated by the length of the hood and the width of the trim. The bachelor's hood is three feet long with two-inch velvet trim, the master's is three and one-half feet long with three-inch trim, and the doctor's is four feet long with five-inch trim. At UIS, bachelor's degree candidates do not wear hoods.

The color of the trim indicates the subject area of the degree: white signifies Arts; peacock blue signifies Public Administration, tan for Business Administration, salmon pink for Public Health, light blue for Education, pink for Music, scarlet for Theology, lemon for Library Science, and so on. There are 35 such designations.

The final information conveyed by the hood is the institution that awarded the degree to the wearer. The color designation for UIS is a royal blue field with a white chevron. Each school has its own color designator. For example, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is a navy blue field with two orange chevrons. Although there is an attempt not to overlap color designators, a number of schools may have the same colors. For example, 39 universities in addition to UIS have royal blue field with white chevron.

The colored cords worn by participants identify students as scholars of distinction who have demonstrated a commitment to learning at a high level of achievement. It is believed by some historians that the wearing of honors cords is older and more traditional than the stoles that are also used by Greek honor societies since the cord recalls the teaching and contemplative orders of the Middle Ages when members of these honor societies wore knotted cords to remind them of their duties. The students who wear these honors cords in our commencement ceremonies today symbolize the University of Illinois Springfield's historical success in attracting capable students who are exemplary scholars committed to a life of learning.

Development of the Campus

The University of Illinois Springfield is located on 746 acres on the southeast side of the capital city, near Lake Springfield.

Legacy Campus, built in the early 1970s, is home to the university's first buildings. Originally intended as "temporary," these buildings have been renovated for many purposes over the years. Among their current occupants are Health Services, Diversity Center, NPR Illinois radio, Cox Children's Center, art studios and music rehearsal rooms, Human Resources, and the exercise science, athletic training, and nursing academic programs.

About University of Illinois Springfield

The University of Illinois Springfield was established in 1970 as Sangamon State University and became the third university in the University of Illinois System in 1995. For its first 30 years, the university was an “upper division” university, enrolling only juniors, seniors and graduate students. It quickly became renowned for its focus on serving the needs of adults who wanted to finish their undergraduate degrees or earn a master’s degree.

UIS enrolled its first class of Capital Scholars Honors freshmen in 2001 and then expanded the freshman class significantly in the fall of 2006. With today’s graduating class, UIS now has over 46,000 alumni worldwide. UIS enrolls more than 4,300 students annually with more than 100 programs of study.

UIS is a place where leadership is lived every day by faculty, staff and students, who have an abundance of opportunities to collaborate in a supportive community environment. The result is a graduating class comprising today’s and tomorrow’s leaders.

Congratulations to all of our graduates.
